

Striking, surprising double effect

Galaxus, Switzerland's largest online retailer, has based its winter campaign on the slogan 'Anticipation is the greatest happiness'. Seventeen innovative images invite viewers to guess the gifts. While they initially see a wrapped gift, a second glance reveals what's inside.

Once night falls, the light goes on and the present is revealed on the backlit posters – all thanks to an additional transparency print on the back. The analogue posters show a wrapped gift. By scanning a QR code on their phones, viewers can use augmented reality to see what's inside. Hanging Displays with lenticular images show viewers on public transport the packaging or the contents of the gifts depending on the angle.
